

Diana Barrowclough is a Senior Economist in UNCTAD, where she works on the Trade and Development Report and other activities. She has also worked in the Division on Investment and Enterprise, and in the Office of the Secretary General. Before joining the UN she lectured economics at the University of Cambridge, where she was a Fellow of St John's College. Consultancy experience includes advising national and supranational authorities and the private sector, on privatisation and regulation issues, finance and investment. She has a PhD in economics (Cambridge).

Piergiuseppe Fortunato is an economist in UNCTAD, currently working in the Unit on Economic Cooperation and Integration among Developing Countries. Before joining UNCTAD he was an economist at Department of Economic and Social Affairs of the United Nations in New York. Previously he held a position of Assistant Professor in Economics at the University of Bologna and was a research fellow at the Université Paris I Panthéon Sorbonne. His research interests include long-term growth and political economy, economic development and South-South integration.

Jörg Mayer is a Senior Economist at UNCTAD, where he is part of the team that prepares UNCTAD's annual Trade and Development Report. Before joining the United Nations in 1991, he was an economist in the International Department of the German central bank. His work areas include development strategies; the interrelationships between macroeconomic policies, trade, investment and growth; and the financialization of commodity markets. He has authored several publications in these fields. He holds a PhD in economics from the European University Institute in Florence (Italy).