Biographical note

Mr. Robert Hamwey is completing his PhD in physics at Dartmouth College in New Hampshire and his Masters degree in economics at the University of Geneva. Robert Hamwey was a Fulbright Professor for environmental issues at the University of Aleppo in Syria and an Associate Professor for international environmental affairs at the Swiss International Academy of the Environment in Geneva. In 1999 he began collaborating with the UN on trade and environment issues, first with UNEP and UNCTAD in Geneva and later with ESCWA in Beirut. Since 2006 he has been collaborating with UNCTAD on various services and development projects. Recently, in July 2009, he assisted UNCTAD in preparing and convening an Ad-hoc Expert Meeting on migration and development. His work on the latter forms the basis of his presentation here today.

Ms. Deepali Ann Fernandes is Economics Affairs Officer with UNCTAD. She completed her BA and LLB in India and her LLM in the UK. She is admitted to the Bar Council of Maharashtra and Goa and as Solicitor to the Law Society of England and Wales. Her work experience spans economic and legal affairs. Prior to joining UNCTAD she practiced corporate law in India and the UK, interned with the WTO and worked with UNEP. She has been a visiting fellow at the University of Cambridge and visiting lecturer at the University of Mumbai. Her work at UNCTAD covers trade in services, migration, regional trade agreements and government procurement.
