

Short courses for Permanent Missions in Geneva

Trade agreements between developing and developed countries

Palais des Nations, Geneva April 16, 2010

Biographical note

Bonapas Onguglo, Senior Economic Affairs Officer in the Division of International Trade in Goods and Services, and Commodities, has worked on trade policy issues and trade agreements of developing countries, including regional trade agreements among African, Caribbean and Pacific countries and the developmental aspects of regional trade agreements with developed countries.

Taisuke Ito, Economic Affairs Officer in the Trade Negotiations and Commercial Diplomacy Branch, Division on International Trade in Goods and Services, and Commodities, has been involved in UNCTAD's work in support of developing countries' beneficial participation in the international trading system and trade negotiations, and worked on trade policy issues of interest to developing countries, including regional trade agreements.

Luisa Antonia Rodriguez is a Venezuelan national. Her work at UNCTAD consists of research and training for developing countries in the area of accession to the WTO, trade in goods and trade in services in the context of multilateral and regional trade negotiations (in English, Spanish and French). She has a 13-year experience on trade issues. She worked for 4 years at the South Centre, doing research and training developing country government officials and other constituencies on trade negotiations, focusing mostly on agricultural trade. Prior to that, she worked for 4 years in the Permanent Mission of Venezuela to the WTO, as negotiator for some issues of the Doha Round concerning trade in goods and following up on implementation of WTO agreements in this same area. Prior to this she worked for 5 years in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs in Venezuela. Luisa holds an MBA on trade-related issues, a certificate of management in International Trade and a Bachelor's degree in International Relations.